Optimal client experience drives our execution and priorities

Issue

A global chemicals company in the UK required a quick and compliant Environmental insurance solution to cover operations in over 130 countries worldwide. Timely policy issuance and service delivery were key decision factors.

Solution

AIG partnered closely with the broker to fully understand the client's specific coverage needs and exposures and leveraged our global and local expertise to provide a comprehensive proposal, as well as suggested policy enhancements, within an expedited time frame.

Why is this important?

Strong Environmental insurance knowledge, an expansive global footprint and a thorough understanding of the client's business enabled a quick response and helped create a trusted and bespoke solution.

Issue

A European manufacturer with extensive operations in North America needed a global Environmental program to match its global footprint and provide the specific Environmental insurance coverage required in the U.S. In-depth guidance on program design and structuring was key to meeting the client's needs.

Solution

AIG's Environmental experts worked in close partnership with local brokers to understand the specific requirements for each region and the client's potential liabilities in light of corresponding regulatory and tax considerations. AIG then leveraged the Multinational Client Brief to design a program that fully addressed the client's global Environmental exposures.

Why is this important?

Collaboration across AIG teams worldwide as well as AIG's thorough knowledge of local market nuances gave the client peace of mind that the program provided optimal coverage for its operations in both European and North American markets.
